

Definition of Money

Alex Glandon

December 2025

We can establish relative utility.

Theory of Games and Economic Behavior - Von Neumann

I can compare the difference in utility between tea and coffee and the difference in utility between coffee and milk.

I can ask you if you would rather have a guaranteed coffee or if you would rather have a 50% chance of tea and a 50% chance of milk.

If you want coffee, you think the difference in value between tea and coffee is less than the difference in value between coffee and milk.

If you want the 50/50 deal, you think the difference in value between tea and coffee is greater than the difference in value between coffee and milk